Student Spotlight

Fremont Abbey Arts Center

What does a day look like at work for you?

Making the building show/event-ready, updating our website, booking bands for shows, mixing and posting music to our podcast, promoting events, shows, and programs, and setting up/tearing down/running our sound systems.

What motivates you to go to work?

The opportunity to have a totally unique work experience every day. I love getting to be a part of creating new art and sharing artistic expression and experiences with the people of Seattle.

Does it relate to your major or career plans at all?

This position does relate to my major in a lot of ways. As a Music Tech major, I get to spend a lot of time with performance-grade sound equipment. I've gotten familiar with a lot of the technology that professional technicians are using in venues here in Seattle and all over the world. I get to mix audio and post to the internet and be involved in some of the recording processes that go on here. All of these are things most tech students hope to be doing when they get out of college, so it's a HUGE blessing to be able to do those things now.

Employer: Juliann Itter
Fremont Abbey Arts Center

Did you work when you were in college or high school? What was that like?

I had multiple jobs throughout college and high school. It was an important process for me to learn what area of work I was truly interested in, and how to work hard even when I knew I didn't want it to become my career.

Cody Kilpatrick
Production Assistant

What have you gained through this experience, specifically as related to your role as a student and employee?

I've gained a sense of ownership in my work, which has stemmed from the Abbey allowing me to be creative and assertive with my own vision and projects. I've learned to value the input of my coworkers and peers and treat every task as a learning opportunity. Finally, I've learned to seek out and appreciate the creativity found within everybody and value their own brand of expression as well as my own!

Any additional comments?

The Abbey is one of the coolest things in Seattle. Definitely not in the spotlight, but the sheer volume of events that happen here is astounding. There is something for everyone here, and I am honored and blessed to be a part of such an impactful part of Seattle.

Why do you like to hire college students?

We love to support artists and youth as they discover and develop their career in the arts. That takes many forms and being involved in a smaller nonprofit environment like Abbey Arts really gives college students the opportunities to grow in a wider variety of ways. Their energy and excitement to learn and grow.

What do you look for when you are hiring, students in particular?

We look for confident people who are interested in learning, self-motivated, work well with others and love the arts.

Do you have any advice for students who are looking for a job, or are thinking about looking?

Be prepared for your interview, do some research on the company you are applying for, and be relaxed enough to connect with your interviewer (but not overly relaxed).
