Student Worker Spotlight

This quarter we asked a few of our working SPU Falcons a few questions about their jobs, transportation, academic support, and for words of advice and encouragement for all SPU students looking for an off-campus job. Here is what we found!

The potential gain of life experience, job opportunity, cultural and philosophical development, far outweigh the risk of a slightly longer commute or the inconvenience of an off-campus job.

Cody Kilpatrick

As a student, you are coming to an incredibly colorful city with opportunities that extend far beyond what you can predict; to say no to the wealth of opportunity outside of campus would be a loss.

Brad Estby

Explore all opportunities, regardless of how small the company is. You never know when you might find a diamond in the rough. I work with great people who really know their stuff. My co-workers mentor me and offer all the guidance I need to be successful in the IT world. Working on-campus is convenient, but working off campus allows you to network and meet new people in the field.

Michaela Hope

I was drawn to the position at Solid Ground because of the organization's mission to end poverty by undoing racism and other oppressions. I believe in the work they do and wanted to be a part of that in some way.

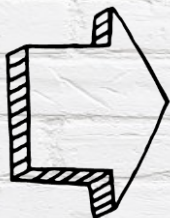

Nicole Basta

My supervisor is incredibly supportive. I've been allowed to make my own schedule each quarter depending on my academic commitments, and have always been able to choose my time off around finals, breaks, or time out of town. My supervisor has told me multiple times that I am most importantly a student.

Attention Work Study Students!

As you know, it is now time to complete your 2016-2017 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)! Just a couple of things to know:

- You must file no later than June 1, 2016 for priority consideration.
- If you participated in a work study program during 2015, you received an email on 02/04/16 from Danielle Richmond.
- Put the amount in this email under taxable earnings from need-based employment programs on the FAFSA. Your total earnings can be found in Banner (Home > Employee Main Menu > Employee Pay and Account Menu > View Earnings Summary).
- If you have questions please feel free to contact Danielle Richmond at dani@spu.edu.
