

GLOBAL DEVELOPMENT STUDIES

2017-2018 Suggested Course Sequence Sheet

The Global Development Studies (GDEV) major prepares students for three different post-graduation career tracks: (i) working in the NGO/government/private sectors on a diversity of development related topics; (ii) academic research in global development/political economy and other disciplines; and (iii) a career in another technical field - public health, water engineering, etc - that will entail significant time working in less developed countries. Most GDEV coursework is only offered once per year, so it is essential that students plan ahead for registration. Be sure to regularly review your Degree Status Check in Banner to make sure you are on track with all of your degree requirements.
