Dear Graduate,

What an honor it is to celebrate you! Along with your family, friends, and the faculty and staff of Seattle Pacific University, I congratulate you on earning your graduate degree. Like the path to any significant achievement, I'm sure there were moments of difficulty and burden along the way, tempered by the joy of engaging deeply with ideas and seeing theoretical knowledge come to life. I hope you are able to savor the fruits of your endurance.

I know how disappointed you must be to not be able to celebrate this special moment in person, as originally planned. Please know that though we share in this loss with you, we also recognize that nothing should get in the way of or diminish your well-earned sense of accomplishment.

In addition to being proud of yourself and all that you have achieved, be sure to acknowledge today, or in the days to come, those who have supported and loved you as you pursued this degree — perhaps spouses, parents, children, siblings, extended family, friends, advisors, or mentors. Thank them for the encouraging role they have played and for the ways they helped so you could prioritize your studies.

As you leave SPU, I hope this university's focus on Christian faith and thinking deeply about ways to apply innovation, creativity, and insights empower you to bring justice and hope to our communities. Your graduate degree can change your world, and it can help you change the world.

With the knowledge you have acquired, you are prepared to lead and influence for the greater good. Your deep understanding of your area of study will enable you to shape policies and practices, confront inequities, solve problems, and give you a respected voice to mentor, raise up, and empathize with others. Your heart and intellect are needed to help steer society into a more renewed and just place.

I trust that you have formed friendships and have been nurtured by the community at SPU. Though we will miss your presence, you are a “Falcon forever.” I hope you will stay connected to your graduate school home. Your relationships with faculty and fellow students will continue to help you grow and develop ideas. We want to hear about the impact you are making on the world.

As you are blessed by God, may you be a blessing to others.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Daniel J. Martin". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal line extending from the end.

Hymn

Great Is Thy Faithfulness

By Thomas O. Chisholm; music by William M. Runyan
Performed by Stephen Michael Newby, DMA
Professor of Music; Director of the Center for Worship

Great is Thy faithfulness, O God my Father;
There is no shadow of turning with Thee;
Thou changest not, Thy compassions, they fail not;
As Thou hast been, Thou forever wilt be.

Refrain
Great is Thy faithfulness!
Great is Thy faithfulness!
Morning by morning new mercies I see.
All I have needed Thy hand hath provided;
Great is Thy faithfulness, Lord, unto me!

Summer and winter and springtime and harvest,
Sun, moon, and stars in their courses above
Join with all nature in manifold witness
To Thy great faithfulness, mercy, and love.

Refrain

Pardon for sin and a peace that endureth,
Thine own dear presence to cheer and to guide;
Strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow,
Blessings all mine, with ten thousand beside!

Refrain

Commencement Speaker

LYNETTE BIKOS, PHD, ABPP
Dr. Lynette Bikos joined Seattle Pacific’s Department of Clinical Psychology in 2005, and has served as associate dean of the School of Psychology, Family, and Community since 2013. As a professor and director of research, Dr. Bikos teaches statistics, research methods, and psychometrics courses to students enrolled in the clinical and industrial-organizational PhD programs. Her research focuses on the intersections of vocational, international, and sustainable psychology. She is particularly interested in understanding how individuals respond to change.

Dr. Bikos has researched global learning outcomes in returnees from study abroad, first-year adaptation of expatriate spouses, and career development in response to a calling-infused career intervention. During the COVID-19 pandemic, she is investigating experiences of, and attitudes toward, wearing cloth face masks. Whether online or around a table, planning, implementing, analyzing, and discovering with her advisees is one of her greatest joys.

Dr. Bikos received her doctorate at the University of Kansas-Lawrence. She presently serves on the editorial boards of the Journal of Vocational Development, Career Development Quarterly, and International Perspectives in Psychology: Research, Practice, Consultation. She is board-certified in counseling psychology and is a fellow in the Western Psychological Association.

History of Academic Clothing

The traditions surrounding academic regalia — gown and cap — date back to the 13th century and have their roots in clerical garments, which were the earliest form of academic attire in England. The academic gown was first used at the University of Cambridge in 1284. American universities adopted the first Intercollegiate Code of Academic Costume in 1895. The American Council on Education later standardized the use of academic regalia in 1932.

Originally adopted as a way of affirming unity in the common pursuit of learning, as well as ensuring warmth in unheated stone buildings, academic regalia is now considered traditional attire for high-ceremony academic occasions. Participants wear regalia that demonstrates — by design and color — their highest academic degree, the general discipline in which they studied, and the university from which they received their degree.

At Commencement, master’s and doctoral graduates wear the tassel for their mortarboard cap or tam on the left side. Faculty members participating in academic ceremonies also wear the tassel to the left. It is customary for men to remove their caps during prayer.

Seattle Pacific University proudly participates in this colorful tradition, which recognizes our part in the larger academic community and celebrates the importance of Commencement as a high ceremony.

Academic Seal and University Mace

In addition to academic clothing, Seattle Pacific University’s Commencement ceremonies include two other important features. The academic seal depicts SPU’s history, academics, and Christian faith. The University mace, which bears the academic seal, represents the authority of the president. The mace always precedes the president in academic high ceremonies.

President’s Citation Award

The President’s Citation is awarded to one graduating master’s or doctoral student each year. The recipient of this award exemplifies the mission and vision of this University, is among those with the highest academic standing in their class, and has demonstrated high character, outstanding leadership, and service to the Seattle Pacific community and beyond.
